HUNT WORLD'S BEAN KING

ALBION, N. Y., September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Louis E. Sands, wholesale bean dealer, and known as the "World's Bean King" has vanished since his father died years ago. As a result of his disappearance, his wholesale plant, doing business as Louis E. Sands Company, Inc., and 28 receiving stations and warehouses in this state and scores of others throughout the country are idle, in compliance with an order from his attorney. Liabilities of the company are said to exceed assets by $300,000 to $500,000. Millions of children, and churches, have built up his business from small beginnings. When Henry Sands, father of Louis, left Albion, for parts unknown, his wife, two sons and two daughters were left to shift for themselves. The elder Sands had eked out a living by buying small lots of beans from nearby farmers and picking them over in his small barn. Louis Sands was 15 years old when his father left and the burden of supporting the family fell on him. He chose to sort beans as his father had done. Within a few years he was an employer. He married Miss Mary Stevens, daughter of an Albion, Michigan minister, and interested Wall Street capital in his business. During the world war, Sands furnished beans for the allied armies and is said to have made more than a million dollars from these contracts. It is believed by friends that the strain of long devotion to business has affected his health. He was a director of banks. The Sands corporation has done an annual business of four or five million dollars. Announcement of the closing was made by Sanford T. Church, attorney for Mr. Sands. He said no action had been taken toward bankruptcy, this depending on further examination of the books and a meeting of creditors.

MINISTERS ATTACK CAVERLY'S SENTENCE

CHICAGO, September 15.—(By the United Press)—Chicago ministers united in Sunday sermons attacking the life imprisonment sentence imposed on Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaire youths who killed 14-year-old Bobby Franks. "It matters little what becomes of the two arch-criminals, Loeb and Leopold, but it makes a great difference to the millions who have watched these men escape the sword of justice because of their money and influence," declared the Rev. Martin Luther Thomas, pastor of the Deerfield Presbyterian Church. "Rev. Thomas, who soon will move to San Pedro, Calif., suggested that State Attorney Robert E. Crowe should resign in protest to this sentence. "This extreme crime deserved the extreme penalty of the law," Dr. M. P. Horton, pastor of the Woodlawn Baptist Church, declared. The Rev. William J. McNamee, from the pulpit of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, said he had long been a personal friend of John Caverly, who sentenced the boys to the state prison, at Joliet. He declared the sentence brought an end to personalities and friendships. "We must condemn the false philosophy which Judge Caverly's decision advo- cates," Rev. McNamee said, "we must have real men on the bench, not lawyers. It is a sorry setback for our 'spotted democracy' and a dastardly ex- ample to have said."

World Flyers Get Ovation In Chicago

MATWOOD FLYING FIELD, CHICAGO, September 15.—(By the United Press)—The Army World Flyers arrived here from Dayton, O., at 12:51 today. Thousands of spectators greeted the flyers. In the crowd were the father and two sisters of Lieutenant Leigh Wade, one of the three intrepid flyers. William Wade and Ethel and Anna Gertrude Wade came here from Cassopolis, Mich., to greet the lieutenant and were among the first to engulf him. First to land was the flagship Chicago, piloted by Lieutenant Lowell Smith. Then the New Orleans, piloted by Lieutenant Eric Nelson, slid gracefully to the ground followed by the Boston, piloted by Lieutenant Wade. So dense was the crowd that the plan to take the flyers all the way around the field in machines had to be abandoned before the tour was completed. Girls leaped on the running board to shake hands with the pilots and their mechanics. "This is the biggest crowd we've hit yet," Lieutenant Smith declared. "It's certainly great to see this turn out." Smith said the flight from Dayton was without incident. The weather was good and conditions generally excellent. "Would you make the flight over again?" he was asked. "Once is enough," Smith laughed. "I wouldn't do it voluntarily but if I was ordered to do it again I would." The next four around the world will be made in less time than the army flyers are doing it, Smith declared. JAIL SENTENCE FOR SPEEDERS

SPRINGFIELD, O., September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Enactment of an ordinance providing a jail sentence for speeders is expected at city commission meeting tonight. The ordinance was drafted by City Manager Robert W. Plack in an effort to break up speeding in the city, and is said to have the approval of most of the commissioners.

Shoots Wife Because Babe Was a Girl

YOUNGSTOWN, O., September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Dan Van Vollos, mother of a five day old infant, shot in the breast by her husband Saturday night, because the baby was not a boy, has a chance to recover, hospital authorities said today. Van Vollos killed himself after shooting his wife. There are five children besides the baby, all girls except one.

Lightning Hits Oil Tank; Four Perish In Fire Still Raging

MONTEREY, CALIF., September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Fire started when lightning struck a 55,000 barrel oil tank of the Associated Oil Company, causing the death of four soldiers stationed at the Presidio of Monterey, injuring many others, and damaging hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property early today had spread to another large tank. Flaming oil poured down the bay, forming a sheet of fire 450 feet from shore. Only two of the men killed, A. B. Boles and E. F. Peterson, have been identified. Nearly forty officers and men were treated for minor burns and injuries at the camp hospital. Three troops of the Eleventh Cavalry narrowly escaped being caught in a river of burning oil, that swept down on the government stores at the base of Presidio Hill. The soldiers were salvaging fodder and stores when the oil in the large tank boiled over. The cavalry men were ordered to run and the order had scarcely been transmitted when a flood of flaming oil swept down upon the warehouses. The fire spread rapidly to surrounding tanks of gasoline owned by the Associated and Standard Oil Companies, causing a number of explosions. Hundreds of men, including soldiers, who attempted to prevent the fire from spreading, were compelled to take refuge at a distance. The flames lighted the countryside for miles around.

Towboat Crews Reject Wage Cut

Public Opinion Enlisted In Fight To Save Two Poor Youths From The Noose

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 15.—(By United Press)—S. H. Freidberg, director of the Cincinnati Business Men's Club, today started circulating a petition calling on Governor Len Small, of Illinois, to commute the death sentence of Bernard Grant, 10, to life imprisonment. "We do this in the belief that the youth of Grant is entitled to the same consideration of mercy as was the youth of Leopold and Loeb," the petition says. "Only by equal execution can this dignity of justice be maintained."

In China

SHANGHAI, September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—The heaviest fighting done so far in the civil war between rival Chinese military factions striving for possession of Shanghai, took place yesterday and today along the line of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway at Hwangtu, 15 miles west of here where the defending Chekiang forces were entrenched along the creek bank and succeeded in holding the position through the day.

DISORDER AND UNREST IN FORCES STATIONED AT MUKDEN; JAP TROOPS MAY ACT

SHANGHAI, September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Arrests of rival military governors fighting for possession of Shanghai, battled with renewed force on all sectors this morning when the reappearance of sunshine was the signal for general resumption of warfare. Several fighting also was reported at Hing, 100 miles west of Shanghai, a point where the Chekiang forces have been victorious in previous engagements.

PRINCESS KILLED IN FALL OVER 100 FT. CLIFF

KINHO, MAINE, September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Members of the family of Princess Helen Radziwill, well known writer and novelist, who was killed on Saturday, when she fell more than 100 feet over the north cliff of Mount Kinoh, left early today for their home in Chicago with the body. The princess was the widow of Prince Ladislav Radziwill, of Poland, and daughter of Dr. Elmer E. Simpson, of Chicago. She had been spending the summer here with her parents, two brothers and a sister.

Tilden To Play In Queen City

CINCINNATI, O., September 15.—William T. Tilden, II., world's greatest tennis player, will be seen in action in Cincinnati. This announcement was made today by officials of the Southern Ohio Tennis Association, who said that Tilden will bring three other nationally known stars with him for an exhibition. The dates selected are September 22, 23 and 24. Alfred H. Chapin, Massachusetts player, who has taken Tilden in five sets in several tournaments during the year, will be one of the three stars. The others are expected to be Nat Niles and Carl Fischer, both high ranking players.

Farmer Loses a Thumb

J. H. Hamesseed, 70, well known farmer, four miles north of South Webster suffered the amputation of his right thumb and serious injury to the first and second fingers of the right hand Sunday afternoon when the digits were caught by a cut-off saw operated by a tractor. The accident occurred on his farm and he was taken to the office of Dr. Arthur Beemer in South Webster for first aid. That physician sent him to Hempstead hospital where Dr. J. W. Fitch attended him. It was found necessary to take off the thumb, it being so badly mangled it could not be saved. A number of stitches were taken in the other two digits. Mr. Hamesseed was able to go to his home today.

Billy Noel, nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. (Bird) Noel of 1219 Eleventh street, sustained a serious fracture of the skull which for a time was thought might prove fatal when he figured in a bicycle and automobile collision at Ninth and John streets about 8:45 o'clock Sunday night. During the night the lad reacted and today his condition was slightly improved, attending physicians being of the opinion that recovery is beyond doubt. The fracture near the crown of the head on the left side extended down towards the ear. The depression in the skull was big enough to lay a finger in. An X-ray taken last night gave the parents much encouragement when it showed there was but slight pressure on the brain, not enough to cause any paralysis.

The automobile that figured in the accident was driven by Pearl B. Ricker of 821 John street. The Noel boy was riding on the handle bars of a bicycle owned by Dudley Grant, who escaped with serious bruises. Mr. Ricker was driving west on Ninth and stopped behind a street car just east of John street. As the car moved on Mr. Ricker drove across the intersection and turned south onto John. His rear wheels were almost over the east bound car track when the bicycle crashed into the rear right fender. The boys did not carry a light on their wheel and Mr. Ricker did not know they were near until he heard the crash. He was going slow on account of making the turn and was able to stop within a few feet. He took the injured lad into the office of Dr. J. W. Fitch and from there the Noel boy was removed to the hospital in the Richards ambulance. Noel was thought to have been injured when his head struck the paved street or street car rail. The Noel boy was unconscious the greater part of the night but rallied sufficiently this morning to recognize his parents and other relatives. The Grant boy was able to go to his home after receiving first aid at the physician's office. His wheel was badly damaged. Mr. Noel, deputy county treasurer, after investigating the accident said that he did not attach any blame to Mr. Ricker, who notified the police of the accident shortly after the Noel lad was taken to the hospital.

Baby Picked Up 40 Feet From Scene of Auto Accident; Escapes Broken Bones

Mrs. Anna Flannery and eight months old baby Howard of Dry Run, West Side, had a narrow escape from being killed several days ago when struck by an automobile on Galena pike at Dry Run. Mrs. Flannery was knocked twenty feet and sustained a broken rib which was torn loose from the back bone up near the shoulder. The baby was picked up forty feet from the spot where Mrs. Flannery was struck. The baby is suffering from a wrenched neck and badly bruised leg, but escaped broken bones. Mrs. Flannery had just alighted from the West Side bus and started around the bus when struck by the passing machine which failed to stop. The license number was secured and later Thurman Phillips, 21, of the West Side, was arrested in connection with the accident. He was charged with failing to stop and give his name after striking the woman and baby. Appearing in Municipal court before Judge Sprague the young man entered a plea of not guilty and hearing was postponed until Mrs. Flannery is able to appear in court. The injured woman was moved to the home of her sister, Mrs. Osa Flannery, near the scene of the accident and has been under the care of a physician there. Sunday she was able to be removed to her home on the Gehres farm. She is able to be up and about the home.

Dry Officer Arrested For Having 'Shine'

TRONTON, O., Sept. 15.—Homer Duty, who has been assisting dry officers in raids over the county, was arrested Saturday evening by Chief Blackwell and Officers Smith, Dudley, Payne, Pickelsimer, Baldwin and Dunore on charges of possessing liquor. Duty, with five companions, presumably customers were located by the officers in the alley between Third and Fourth and Lawrence and Buckhorn streets. As they approached the alley, they said a man started across as if to warn the crowd, but they beat him to it and found the six men sitting in the alley. Duty, they said, had a gallon glass jar of liquor and a funnel and was fully prepared to take care of the wants of his customers. He was charged with possessing liquor and bond was fixed at $200. He was unable to furnish the bond last night. His five companions—Cliff Justice, Jess Eldridge, John Crawford, Orville Hanshaw and a "John Doe"—were charged with disorderly conduct. Police say that they had been watching Duty for some time and that he had boasted he was confiscating liquor in raids and then selling it. Duty has been active in raids with dry officers, and it was first reported upon his arrest last night that he was a deputy sheriff. This report, however, was denied by attaches of the sheriff's office, who said he had never been appointed as such an officer and that his presence with county officers on raids was only by the personal responsibility of the officers involved.

Lewis County Favors River Route

QUINCY, Ky., September 15.—(Special to The Times).—At a recent meeting of the Lewis County Good Roads Association, with County Chairman C. H. Galloway presiding, several important committees were appointed. D. H. Hall and George Stages were named to call on the State engineers surveying the route for the proposed improved road through Greenup and Lewis counties. This committee is to ascertain from the engineer in charge just when they will start work on the Engalla Highway, running from the west Greenup county line to Vanceburg. R. D. Wilson, B. B. Anderson and H. D. Craig were named to confer with the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce and to enlist their help and influence in preventing the improved road in Kentucky from being built over the hill or old State Highway route, which leaves the Ohio river at a point near Garrison and crosses Tygart Creek at Rocky Fork bridge, about ten miles up Tygart from Portsmouth. The association feels that there is more wealth represented along the route from Garrison to South Portsmouth than there is along the back route from Garrison to Greenup. Then, too, Portsmouth is the market for all of the country in Greenup county and the back or hill route would not help them in getting their produce to market. The old State Highway route would also direct from Fullerton and vicinity and would be a big drawback in the project to bridge the Ohio river at that point. The association believes that the selection of the hill route would be a detriment to the whole tri-state section and that eventually the state would have to build a hard road over the Ohio river route.

polls this year. One does not have to go far to discover that the beneficiary of the get-out-the-vote movement will be the Republican party. The public may be prepared for a record-breaking vote, judging by the efforts being made in localities so onesided in politics as this. The vote in Maine a few days ago was significant of this more. Then 280,000 votes were cast, as compared with 193,000 four years ago. Incidentally

Holy Redeemer High Will Open Season With New Boston At Millbrook Park, Sept. 20th

The Holy Redeemer eleven will open the season with New Boston at Millbrook Park, September 20th, Manager Howard Duschinski announced today. The Green and Gold warriors have been turning out splendidly for practice, and the team has bright prospects for a good season. Practically the entire line up of last year is out again, and there are a number of new faces on the practice field.

the mathematicians will be somewhat upset. Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, has figured out for instance, that the Democrats in Maine had a higher percentage of the total vote cast last Monday than they did two or four years ago and that, conversely, the Republican percentage of the total was diminished. Throughout the nation a larger vote than four years ago is in prospect notwithstanding the early signs of an apathetic campaign so usual in September. This part of New York state, populous and conservative, is a good cross section by which to judge.

Defection to Progressives May Be Offset By New Vote

But who are the LaFollette supporters? Are they former Democrats or Republicans or Socialists? The Republican leaders almost everywhere would have one believe LaFollette is swallowing up the Democratic party. Yet not a single outstanding Democrat in this city has come out for LaFollette, nor have any leading Republicans for that matter. In this respect indeed does this campaign differ from 1912. Then almost every day some prominent Republican announced himself as a Bull Moose. In some states the whole Republican organization bolted to Roosevelt. Nothing like that is in prospect this year. At least in this part of the world. They know no civil war or insurrection in the Republican party. All is serene on the banks of the Genesee and the throbs of industry pulsates strongly without a symptom of faltering. LaFollette has a hold on the working classes, but even they are not angry or hungry. They are not fired with a passion of discontent. They like LaFollette because his speech is a champion of the masses has spread though no concrete achievement or pledge of future performance catches the imagination of his followers as a slogan. Such LaFollette strength as there is may be classed as Socialistic to an extent, but with it goes a number of people who want to be different, who like the words "Independent" and "Progressive," and whose defection from the ranks of the regular parties will be in no small degree offset by the new vote.

It's no three-cornered roll here. President Coolidge has measured up to the traditional ideas of a Republican nominee and whether by reputation, vigor and masterful silence or common sense, or cool calmness, on the maintenance of the status quo, the fundamental reasoning of those who uniformly support him is that he himself ranks above his party colleagues and that he will somehow soothe the aches of the last congress and keep business employment and all the other materialism of the hour safely intact. For there is no urge for "progressivism," as it was known in 1912, no crying lull to be remedied, no crusades slung "Onward, Christian Soldiers." None of those outbursts have characterized the third party movement here. It's a sullen group with a class protest as of yore. Their vote may be large, relatively speaking, but it will not exceed in percentage the votes cast in this state in previous years for independent tickets.

So far as New York is concerned, the LaFollette movement can be dismissed as hardly a factor at this writing. October may see a change, but the Conservatives will then be awake too. This is rock-ribbed Republican state, with no Theodore Roosevelt running this year, but a man from distant Wisconsin. Such is the effect thus far of all the keynote speeches, denunciations, labor exhortations and political palaver of the two months that have elapsed since the electric fans at the Republican convention were first adorned with the slogan "Keep Cool With Coolidge." And what's more, they accent the last syllable of LaFollette which about illustrates what a stranger he really is to the people within these gates.

The Chicago Tribune today printed an editorial stating it would be unfair to hang Grant and Walter Krauser, 20, who confessed to the Souder's killing.

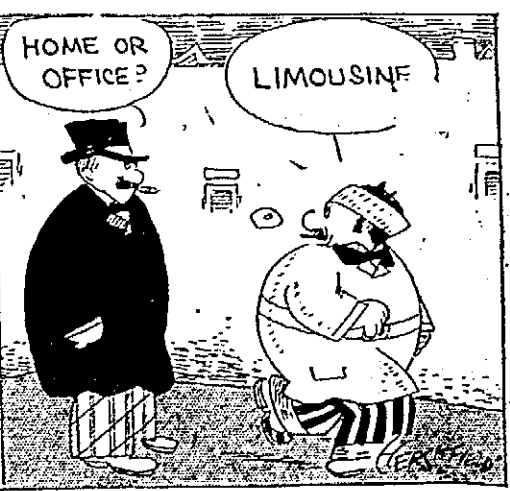

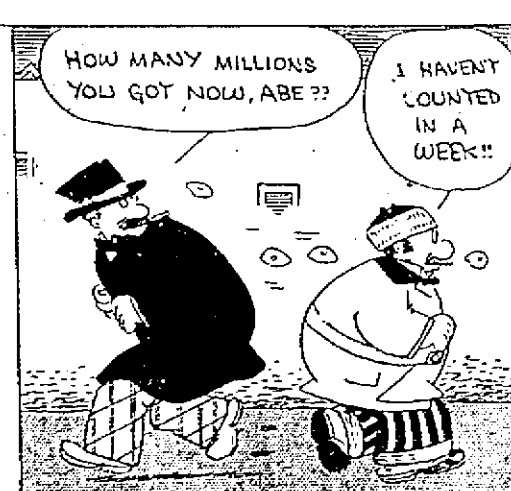

"With Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold installed in the state institution at Joliet, it would be grossly unfair to hang either Krauser or Grant," the editorial said.

Crowds of curious persons gather daily for a glimpse of the weather-beaten little frame house in the back "of the yards district" occupied by parents and brother and sister of young Grant. The bare, unpainted structure presents a startling contrast to the palatial home of Leopold and Loeb, also on the north side, but in front of the stock yards.

The NERVOUS WRECK by E. J. Rath

BEGIN HERE TODAY
The "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric young seafarer, is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes life goblins from a passing car.

They are held captive at a ranch owned by Mr. Underwood, who was in the car which they held up. They finally escape from the ranch, run into a camp of real bandits, and then escape again. Fleeing from the bandit camp, they suddenly are confronted by Sheriff Bob Wells. Sally's fiancé, who is at the head of a posse searching for the bandits, orders Sally to break off her engagement with the sheriff and is married to the Wreck by a justice of the peace who is in the sheriff's posse. The marriage license is written on the back of an old road map.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"See. Here's where we are," he explained, putting a forefinger on the map. "You just follow the main road from here, going left, until you come to this road. Wait! I'll mark it for you. Then you follow the other road. It's a little twisty, but you can't miss it. Keep right on the way I'm showing you until you come to this turn. You keep bearing to the right. That fetches you to another pike, and you follow that to the left. And there's the Bar-M, right in there."

"The Wreck needed an improved public document, useful in many ways than one. Ain't that so, Bob?" But the sheriff was striding down the trail in the direction of the horses.

"Well, good luck, folks," said the judge, as he shook hands. "The posse's got official business on its hands. I reckon it ought to be easier than rolling rivers."

"The Wreck needed an improved public document, useful in many ways than one. Ain't that so, Bob?" But the sheriff was striding down the trail in the direction of the horses.

"Get in," he said. "She got in, settler herself in the seat and stared ahead of her. They followed the pike for nearly an hour, until they came to a road that crossed it. Not a word was spoken. He fumbled with the dog-eared document, unfolded it and found the license uppermost. Hastily reversing it, he studied the map.

"This is where we turn off," he said. Sally merely shrugged. He turned the flier over to the new road and drove on for a while. "The Wreck shot off the engine and jammed the brakes. He began to gesticulate. He became abruptly visible, without any clear idea of what he was saying.

"Now, don't you worry a particle. It's my fault, every bit of it. Of course, I hadn't any business to. But—but I just couldn't help it, that's all. I was dreaming, I guess. I got crazy notions. I thought, maybe, well, anyhow, it's my fault. And I'm yours not—but what's the use of sorry; that is, if you're sorry. If talking about that? I'll do my best, you just see. I'll work my head off for you. I'll do anything. Who wouldn't? You give me a chance, that's all. I'll go back to Pittsburgh and I'll make a million dollars for you. I'll give you anything in the world you want. All I want is a chance. I tell you, you just watch me. And I'll make good. You're the finest—Well, anyhow I'm going to make you happy, if it breaks my neck."

The Wreck had the service brake jammed down as far as it would go. He hauled back on the emergency brake. The flier plunged onward, her brake bands screaming and smoking.

"We're going to hit something!" cried the Wreck. Sally opened her eyes. "Don't hit the kitchen!" she cried. "Ma's in there! Hit the corral!" He could at least steer, and he did. They hit the corral. A section of fence flew into kindlings and the flier charged onward. The sorrel horse, directly in its path, lifted his head, snorted, wheeled back out with his heels and missed it by inches. The fence on the further side loomed. There was a second crash, a lurch, a splintering of various things. The flier stopped.

Dad Morgan, who was leaning against the fence a few yards distant, removed his pipe from his mouth and examined the situation with interest. "I see you made good time getting back," he remarked. "Dad," Sally cried. "Howdy Wreck?" He stroled over for a better look at the flier. One of the wheels was crumpled, but mudguards were curled up, the wind-shield was gone and there was a rivulet of steaming brown water dripping from the radiator.

"I reckon," said Dad, "that her nervous system is kind of shot up." "Oh Dad!" Sally cried. "Sally leaped clear of the wreckage and had her arms around his neck. "Git the troussseau!" he asked, when she let go of him. "Trousseau!" cried Sally. "Why, I'm married!" "Well, I'll be darned!" "Where's Ma? I want to tell her."

"Well, I'll be darned," repeated Dad. "Your Ma's over to the house, I reckon. What's Bob?" Sally began to laugh. "I'm not married to Bob. I'm married to Henry Williams!" Dad Morgan's glance wandered to the Wreck, who was still sitting in the wreck.

"Sure," said the Wreck, as he climbed down. "Only don't grin at me. Hear me? Don't grin. It makes me nervous."

Fashionable Frocks

Brighten Autumn

Fashion's notebook assigns for autumn afternoon occasions satin Frocks with dashing tunics, slashed, buttoned or bound in plaid; bongaline Dresses made party-like with huge bows at low waistlines; and some alpacas in light-hearted colors. While for street and business she calls softly tailored broadcloth and twill Frocks the best, introducing Directoire and Spanish notes for spice. The Autumn Opening reveals the Frock story in interesting fashion. Attend and make note of what smartnesses you would like in your autumn wardrobe.

Wraps of Autumn

Choose Unusual Silhouettes

Fashion saw women wrapping their smart Coats closely about them, achieving a silhouette ever so narrow at the hem and rather full in the waist. Then striving diligently to please them further she designed these Wraps for fall, which follow the lines of a dolman so closely. Puff sleeves appear occasionally and a lining of plaid enlivens one or two. Follow this mode or choose a straightline Wrap with tunic border of fur — your style-right appearance is assured.

Lustrous Furs

With New Fashion Ways

The Smartest Suits

Are Ensemble Costumes

The Suit that triumphs this Fall is an ensemble costume, consisting of seven-eighth length coat and frock akin to it in decoration and color. You will remember the ensemble's first appearance, its acceptance, its general becomingness; and you will realize how much one can mean to you when you see the newer models. Tawny shades were chosen to enhance your loveliness and suede-finished fabrics to bring out their richness most charmingly. These are practical costumes, accommodating for so many occasions.

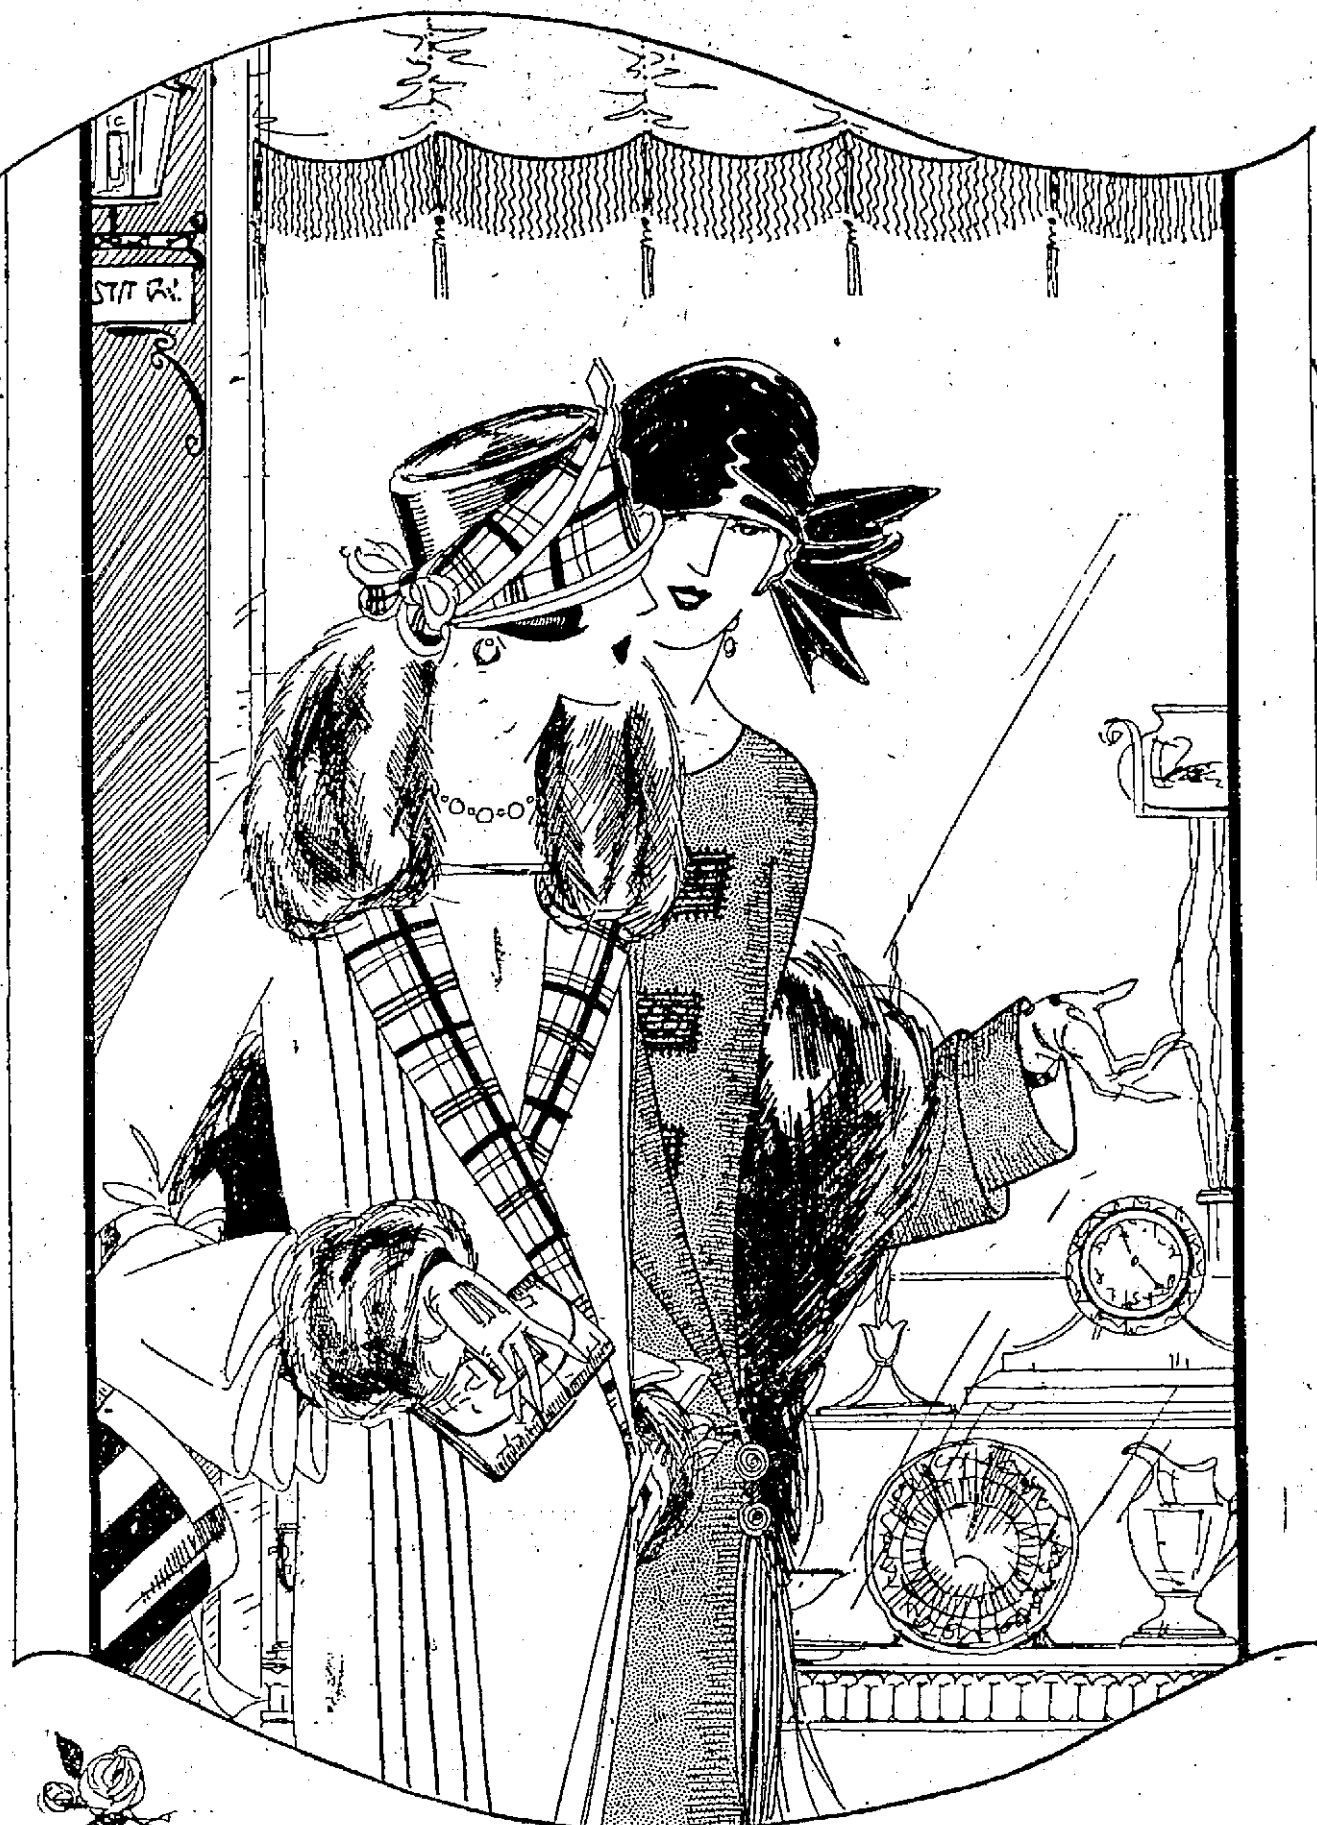

Fall Blouses

Many Hint Of Spain

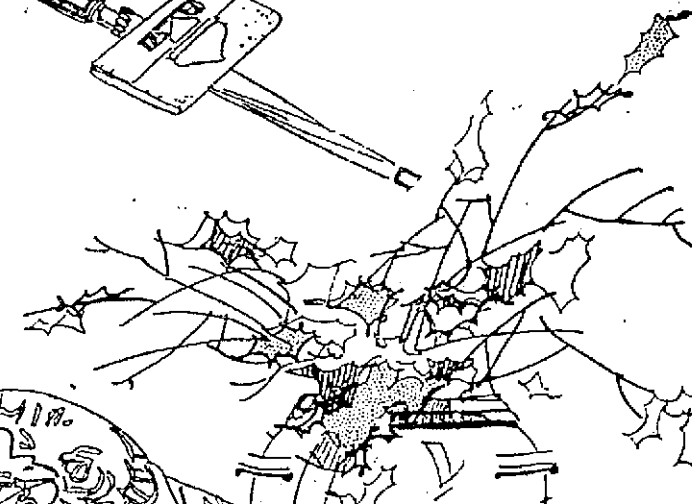

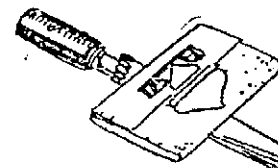

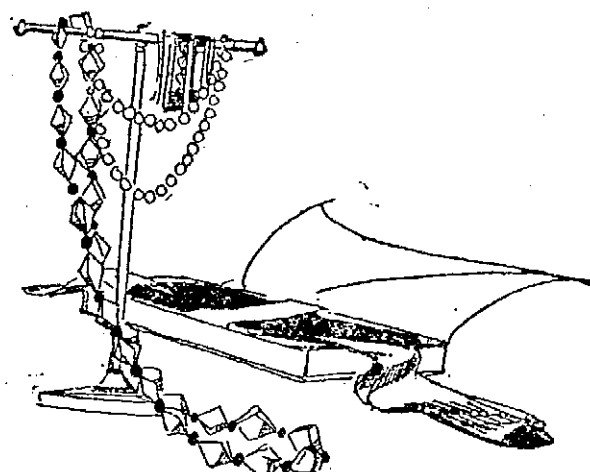

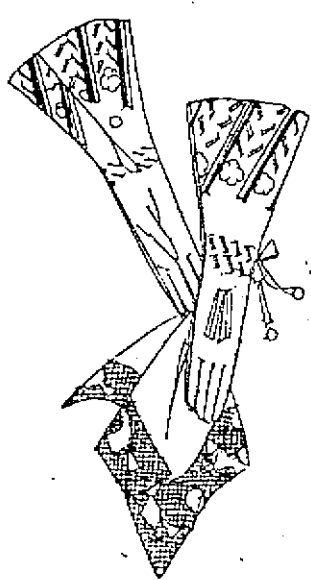

There's a Spanish sparkle to many a Blouse arrived for autumn. Long fringed tunics and heavy embroideries in company with vivid colors promise flattery. Indeed there is becomingness in these Blouses of handsome ribbed silks, too, and in models designed for youth, perky with plaid. A wealth of newnesses appear in Blouse modes, winning style points that make each one a joy to wear.

Autumn's Fabrics Have Come

It's a thorough delight to fashion a wardrobe one's self if the fabrics one has to work with are charming and easy to drape. There will be many softly tailored frocks so smart for fall made at home this season for almost never before were fabrics so likable. Suede-finished woollens and silky broadcloths enter with striped twills, shiny satins and cashmere woollens to charm the trained or amateur sewer.

A tantalizing glimpse of the new modes for fall, a lesson in the smart things to wear for that important season, an hour or two of keen pleasure — provided in our Autumn Opening, which takes place this week, September sixteenth to twentieth.

Marting's

Fall Millinery

Shapes And Shades Entrancing

Joy to the spirited girl, joy to the matron in the new Millinery modes for Fall. With the roguish little felts and lizard skin Hats that have come for the former and the chic high crowned styles arrived for her Mother there is promise of Hat satisfaction for all. Further, for the street there are small brimmed sailors and many quill-trimmed Chapeaux, belting ribbon Hats and crushers of duvetyne. While for dress the Hat takes on larger proportions and is very likely to flaunt ostrich trim, double brim or bird of gay plumage. Interesting to note that pansy shades are fashion-favored and to see them with a tinge of red for youth.

Sportswear

In A Jubilant Mood

For the round of zesty pleasures that autumn brings there are brilliant assortments of Sportswear to put you in a happy frame of mind. Teasing scarfs hold trysts with scratch felt hats in colorful tones. Brushed wool sweaters enter with jaunty skirts that are circular. And a knitted frock in oxblood shade has powers to charm the most indifferent. Enter the Sportswear Section with pleasant expectations, for Exposition Week finds in it a maze of things colorful and smart.

Smart Accessories

For Every Occasion

Larger Sizes

In Tasteful Autumn Wear

Selected for the larger woman in quest of chic are a variety of Frocks and Wraps that show many of the season's foremost tendencies. What grace to her figure the tunic frock will impart. How charming she will appear in the slim coats that are styled for draping closely about one. Real satisfaction is in store for the mature woman on her visits to the Autumn Opening displays. Beautiful apparel becoming to her is almost without end.

Little Folks

Have Their Own Displays

The petite persons who hold your hearts in their hands are catered to in our Autumn Exposition. Master Bud and Mistress Mary may be outfitted from whirly curl to tiny toe with the smartness of their elders, in our Children's Section. And it is not style alone that emerges from this section but sound value in the smallest item. Let brisk days coming see the wee ones in these newest of coats, hats, frocks and suits.

For A Gracious Home This Autumn

With the fall of twilight each autumn evening, the Home scores its inning. Young and old hasten to it, rejoice in the sweet music of tinkling teacups and the radio's revelations, glean large pleasure from new books, new games, chats with good friends. And just in proportion to its charm a home is successful in keeping a family contented through sombre fall and long winter. Make yours a home unusual. Buy for it certain precious comforts now, during the Autumn Exposition of House Furnishings. Visit and learn the new notes in decoration.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I read a letter in your paper not long ago from a "Hungry Husband," and he certainly has my sympathy. Dolly, I live on Dry Run and if that man will come out to my house I surely will give him a meal like his mother used to cook—home-made snapper, kumt, home-made bread and all the good old-fashioned dishes. I am a bit old-fashioned myself so far as cats are concerned and sure do feel sorry for married men who have wives who cannot cook a decent meal.

—INTERESTED READER.
Why not make it a picnic and invite all your hungry city friends?

Dear Dolly—I live in a double house and the people who live in the other side of it just make life miserable for me. I would move, but it is hard to get a house that a poor man can pay rent for. Now, Dolly, these people have young daughters and they allow them to have company at all hours of the night. I would like to know what you think of a mother who will allow anything like this to go on around her house? And, Dolly, that is not all; they have plenty of moonshine around and also pass it out to other readers.

There is not much you can do about the matter, except to report them to the officers or move. If I were you I would keep on the look-out for a house and move at the first opportunity, as it is not very pleasant to have neighbors like the ones you mentioned.

Dear Miss Wise—Can you tell me an easy way to make noodles for chicken soup?

—YOUNG BRIDE.

To make noodles for soup, beat one egg with a pinch of salt, then stir into it gradually enough flour to enable you to knead a firm dough. Lay this on the floured pastry board, roll thin and cut into strips of a half inch in width. Leave these long strips on the board for a few minutes until so dry that they may be rolled up loosely as tape is rolled. These can be dried in a colander near the range and kept for soup. They are to be dropped into the boiling soup and cooked for fifteen minutes. You may keep them in a tin box in a dry place for several days.

Dear Miss Wise—Will you please tell me how I can get rid of a big lump of fat that has parked itself on my neck? Dolly, I am a nice-looking woman and I don't want anything like that hanging around my neck.

—WORRIED READER.

I suppose the big lump of fat is nothing else but a double chin. To get rid of that you might practice the following exercise: stand erect in military position. Place the hands lightly on the hips, fingers forward. Drop the chin slowly on the collar bone; then throw the head back, with a quick even movement that is not a jerk, but yet puts all the muscles into quick play. Repeat ten times. Turn the head quickly to the right until the chin is just over the right shoulder; then back again. Repeat ten times; then turn the head to the left in the same way. Repeat ten times. Do not tire the muscles of the neck, but gradually increase the number of exercises daily until you can practice each one about fifty times without discomfort. After you do this for a while I think you will come to the conclusion that you would rather have a double chin.

Worried Kate—I can't even hint at what you should do for the trouble you mentioned in this column, so the best advice I can give you is to consult a physician. However, I think things will adjust themselves eventually, so why worry about 'em?

Perplexed—You made a mistake when you showed the man how much you cared for him, before he had a chance to mention the subject to you, but there is no use worrying about it now. That may and may not be, the reason he is acting indifferent towards you, so I would advise you to assume the same attitude towards him. Just act as though it did not make any difference to you whether or not he asked you for a date. If he does, do not let the things you mentioned happen again, at least not until he has asked you to marry him. Since he did not think you were that kind of a girl naturally he was disappointed in you when he found out you were willing to have a petting party every time he called.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

INDIAN TOBIES

So up they climbed and pulled off a whole bunch of the tobies.

Now when this story begins it isn't going to have anything to do with Nancy or Nick or Mister Snip-Snap. But before it ends it is going to have a great deal to say about them.

Just you wait and see.

It's about Scamper and Scramble, two little boys who were staying with their grandparents in Maple Grove School and got an education, their own house being too far away to come such a distance every day.

One Friday after school Scamper and Scramble passed an Indian toby tree. There it was, hanging all over with long brown beans that looked for all the world like cigars or tobies.

"Let's get some," said Scamper.

"Let's," agreed Scramble. "So up they climbed and pulled off a whole bunch of the tobies and stuffed them into their pockets."

Then they slid down again.

"Whatta you got?" asked Billy Bunny, hopping up.

"Tobies!" said the Squirrel boys.

"Really ones?"

"Goodness no! What do you think Grammy would say if she caught us smoking. We should say not!"

"Let's smoke 'em anyway just for fun," said Billy. "These old things can't hurt a flea. I've smoked corn silk lots of times."

"All right! Got any matches?" asked Scramble.

"None but I'll get some," said Billy. Billy ran into his house and got the matches and came back. He should have asked his mother, but he didn't, and that's where the trouble began.

For little boys have no business with matches and his mother would have said "no."

But she was out in the garden, so he reached up on the kitchen mantel and got a handful.

When he got back there was a whole crowd there all waiting for matches to smoke their Indian tobies. There were the three Woodchuck boys and Cutie Cottontail and just about everybody.

Well, the little rascals lighted their smoke-believe tobies and puffed at them, but they weren't so very good. After a little while they threw them away (it had been raining, I'm glad to say, or they might have set the woods on fire), and went on playing with something else and forgot all about their tobies.

But at supper time Mrs. Crackouts began to sniffle and sniffle like everything.

"Boys," she said severely.

"Yes, Granny," said Scamper and Scramble, knowing that something was coming.

"I smell smoke! Come here!"

Both of them slid out of their chairs and marched right over.

First she smelled Scamper's hands, then Scramble's (they hadn't washed before supper, I'm ashamed to say) and then she smelled their breath.

"Smoking!" she almost shrieked.

"But, Granny," they began.

"But me no buts!" she cried. "I guess I've got a nose! Smoke is smoke and matches are matches. I smell both, and all the butts in the world cannot make me think any differently. Cigarettes, I'll be bound—or a pipe! Really, I feel like fainting. To think that grandsons of mine would—"

"And she went on and went on and then ordered them to bed.

"They had no chance that day to tell her it was only play smoke.

But things were going to be even worse."

The Long Tunic Blouse Is Fall Fashion's

Whether you have a new suit or not, you'll need one of these new Fall blouses. And you'll be eager to have one after you've seen how really lovely they are. Many of them are beaded—others are embroidered. Some are very tailored and hemstitched—invariably they are long tuniced, frequently with a bit of flare at the hip. In all of the new Fall shades—of crepe de chine and the new satin and ribbed surface fabrics.

Fashion Lays Stress On The New Fall Fabrics

The Mode is new. But frequently the distinction is so subtle that were it not for the fabric to accentuate it, you would hardly notice the difference. That is why the new Fall fabrics are so very interesting. There are new ribbed effects, new two-tone effects, new nappy fabrics, in plain, printed jacquered and plaided designs to effect the Mode in a new way.

Fashion Says 'Brims Up' on New Fall Hats

There is no abandoning the cloche! Disguised, it's smartest for the Fall ensemble. Frequently tiny brims turn up all the way around. Ofttimes cuffs are set on the brims. Spanish colorings are employed often, such as black with yellow, black with red, or Spanish red alone. In styles becoming to every type, and according to the smartest Fashion dictates, many are priced 5.00.

Little Details of Consequence --Accessories

It's not the frock alone, or the suit or the coat—it's the important little extras that distinguish a fashionably dressed woman. Gloves, Hose, Handbags, Neckwear—you will see everything you need to give your Fall wardrobe just the finishing touches it needs, in our Fall Opening displays.

FALL OPENING

Fall — a new season — new activities — new interests. There's a crisp new tang in the air that spurs one on — a riot of new color in the world that blends all into one glorious harmony. There has been a new Mode on the horizon for a long time, and now it's actually here. Our Opening of Fall Apparel takes place this week. You will find assembled here just the things you want for the new Season. Come today, or tomorrow — as soon as you can.

DIRECTOIRE! If Napoleon could take one peep into the world of smart fashions today no doubt he would feel he had added one more conquest to his list. For the Mode has authorized the tophat, the tiny cape, the subtle flare of Directoire days. These trends are smartly portrayed in our Opening Displays.

SPANISH! You read of the romantic tales written about Spanish Senoritas. And now you read of the smart styles of the present day whose origin is traced to Spain. Lace—bright reds, Spanish sail-or hats—scarfs, shawls, bouffant skirt effects—all these and more are here in the smartest of adaptations now.

The New Fall Wraps Favor Wrappy Upper Sections

Still very slim and slender, the new Fall wraps employ subtle innovations to achieve this favored silhouette. Many of the coats, still close fitting at the bottom, evidence a wrappy upper section that is very smart. Many, too, have shawl or tuxedo collars. Others are very slender and are bordered with fur at the bottom. Prices begin at 45.00.

The Fall Topcoat Is Invariably Plaided

This is a season of plaids—broken plaids, shadow plaids, blocked plaids. And the smart distinction of these designs is exemplified in the new Fall Topcoat. Ideal for general utility wear, these coats may be chosen, fashioned along the long slender lines of the mode. Many of them also have tuxedo or shawl collars of fur. Prices begin at 21.50.

Redingote Lines Dominate The New Fall Frocks

More and more the costume idea creeps into the Mode. This season the endorsement of this trend has brought the Redingote frock to the foremost in tailored street frocks. Color contrast is an important factor. Ofttimes the Redingote is of one fabric and color—the under slip of another. Of rep, charmeuse and the new ribbed fabrics, prices begin at 21.50.

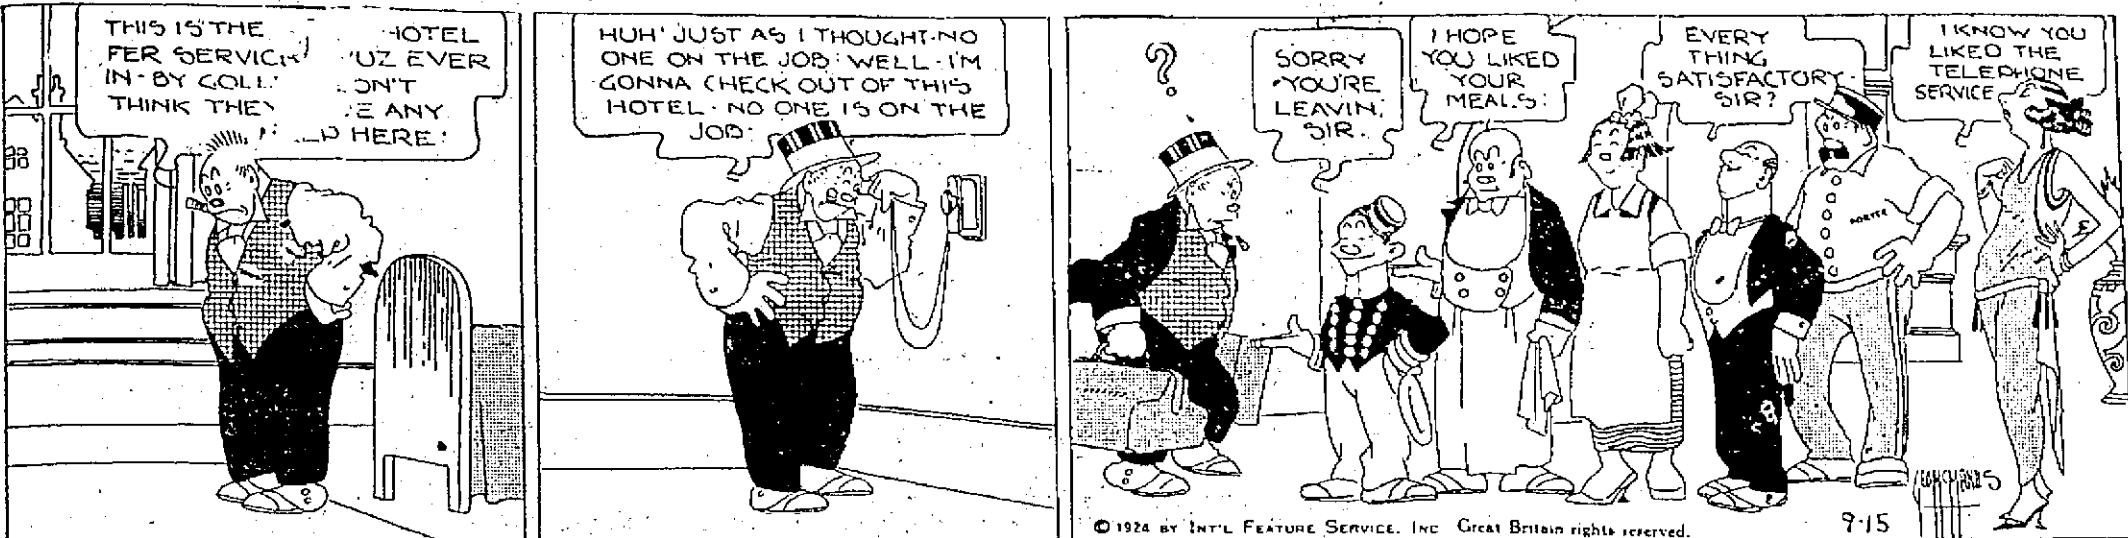

Shiny Fabrics Distinguish the Silk Frocks

Long, slim, slender frocks of satin and the new shiny ribbed fabrics: frocks whose long tunic blouse effects end in a smart flare at the bottom; frocks with long sleeves in many interesting lace variations and mousquetaire effects—these are some of the frocks you may choose for smart afternoon occasions. In black and the new brown and red tones, 25.

WITH ROOSEVELT
INTRODUCTION
"Admiral W. Robert Foran to see me at ONCE—no matter where I am," Theodore Roosevelt scribbled that in a notebook, tore the sheet out, and then handed it to Robert Foran in a hotel in Cairo one day in March, 1910. As the only newspaper correspondent to remain with Roosevelt throughout his journey in Africa, Foran had come to know the famous statesman-adventurer intimately.

The Roosevelt expedition sailed from New York on the "Hamburg" on March 23, 1910. Foran accompanied the party. With Colonel Roosevelt sailed his second son, Kermit, and three scientific members of his staff—Major Edgar A. Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Allen Loring. At Naples the expedition transhipped to the "Admiral," a German steamer.

CHAPTER I
At the Gateway of East Africa
"By gosh, that's a wonderful sight," the delighted exclamation cut crisply into the awed silence. It came from Theodore Roosevelt, seeing for the first time the beautiful entrance to the harbor of Mombasa Island, the "gateway" of British East Africa.

It was the afternoon of April 21, 1909, and our voyage from New York—where we had sailed just a month earlier—was due to end in a couple of hours at most.

We were standing on the bridge-deck of the Deutsche-Ost-Afrika-Linie steamer "Admiral"—Theodore Roosevelt, Kermit, Selous, a few other passengers, and myself. All of that group were staring across the placid blue waters of the Indian Ocean toward the glorious tropical scenery, rapidly unfolding before us.

Roosevelt's eyes were shining with intense excitement; his hands gripped the rail until the knuckles were bloodless; and his entire sturdy body seemed to be poised and expectant, like a well-trained pointer at work in the field.

Small wonder for that enthusiasm! At last a dream of many years was about to be fulfilled. Within an hour he would be standing on the soil of British East Africa, the "wonderland of big game." The call of Africa, long beckoning he had answered at last.

"They call it the 'grave of reputations,' colonel," I remarked.

"Not of mine," he answered emphatically, and then laughed boyishly, as if at some joke of his own thinking.

"I don't expect ever to return, after this expedition is concluded," protested Roosevelt further.

"T. R." sighed, and his face was stern as he turned once more toward the enchanting scene spreading far below us.

We were slowly entering the fringe of coral reefs that guard the harbors of Mombasa and Kilindiini. The glories of that tropical scenery gripped us. The brilliant green of the foliage, with its vista of whitewashed European bungalows and Arab houses nestled amongst them, showed the ancient port at its very best. It was the period of the monsoon rains, and everything was fresh and sweet-smelling. The air was filled with the aroma of the spices of the orient and the dull booming of the rollers of the Indian Ocean upon the coral rocks. Here and there the curious Baobab tree gave forth a welcome shade, being rich in dark green foliage at this season of the year; the feathery coconut palms reared their heads above their smaller brothers; towering above all were the giant mango trees; and, as a foreground, the somber-brown, contorted coral rocks.

"Beautiful!" Theodore Roosevelt exclaimed again and again, feasting upon the loveliness of this magic harbor of Kilindiini.

A British third-class cruiser, H. M. S. "Pandora," belonging to the Cape Squadron, had come up from Zanzibar to pay the naval commander-in-chief's respect to the former president of the United States. As we came closer to her, the cruiser's white-painted hull burst into flashes of flame. The boom of the heavy guns echoed across the waters toward the distant blue outlines of the Shimba Hills, and then was cast back to us.

"Boom—bang!" came the guns in quick succession, until the regulation salute had been completed. And Roosevelt stood at rigid attention, his face inscrutable and tense.

The official respects of the government of East Africa and of the British navy on the Cape of Good Hope station were quickly paid; and, before ten minutes had passed after the "Admiral" had cast anchor, the Roosevelt and their party were descending the ship's ladder to the naval launch from the "Pandora."

Just before he left Colonel Roosevelt showed me a cablegram that he was going to send to the German emperor, cordially assenting to my use of the message as a news-story. The cablegram read:

"I desire to express to your majesty my deep appreciation for my treatment on the 'Admiral' under Captain G. Doherr, and my great admiration for the astounding energy of the growth of the mercantile and colonial interests of Germany in East Africa."

Africa." This message of good-will was characteristic of Theodore Roosevelt. More than once on that voyage between Naples and Mombasa he had spoken to me in most appreciative terms of the type of men Germany was sending out for pioneer work in their East African colony.

As suddenly as the sun had set, so had darkness swept over the land. In the tropics there is no twilight. The sun dips below the horizon and, a few minutes later, it is night. With newspaper men following him to or into Africa. He had been kind enough to waive his objection in so far as I was personally concerned, but he made it clear to other correspondents who had traveled with him from Naples to Mombasa that when we reached Africa the birds would not be lifted.

"You can go to Africa, of course," he had told us. "I can't prevent that; nor do I wish to do so. But I have every right to insist that my of us had the slightest foundation for complaint about his fair treatment of us. He had been frankness itself, and, moreover, he had even gone out of his way to remove obstacles from our paths.

Friend of the Family—"William, can it be possible that I heard you say 'Hello, governor' to your father?"
William—"Yes, it pleases poor old dad. You see, he never has any say in anything at home. Mother's the real executive."

ONE OF THE WINDING STREETS OF MOMBASA.

the disappearance of the sun came a deluge of rain. No water-proof ever invented could withstand such a torrential rainfall.

But the rain did not fall until the special train, conveying the Roosevelt expedition, had departed. As the ex-presidents had set foot on the quay, in charge of the gathering of the island and civilian notables of the island had greeted him with loud and prolonged cheers. There could be no mistaking the genuine warmth and earnest cordiality of that first greeting to British East Africa.

Next day at noon, we were to start forth on the most wonderful railroad in the world through nature's zoo. Our journey would not end until we reached the first camp of the Roosevelt expedition on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains—288 miles from the coast.

CHAPTER II
"Goodby, Teddy Roosevelt—and Good Hunting!"

Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit, as well as the three scientific members of the expedition—Major Edgar A. Mearns (U. S. A. retired), Edmund Heller and J. Allen Loring—were dressed in serviceable looking khaki hunting clothes and sun-helmets.

B. J. Cunningham, the manager and professional guide of the expedition, had come down to Mombasa to meet the party and to help them cart their large quantities of stores and baggage. He was going to travel with the special train to Kapiti Plains, and had been hard at work since daylight superintending the loading of the baggage for the party.

In addition to the personnel of the Roosevelt expedition, the train was to carry as far as Nairobi the selling governor, Sir Frederick J. Jackson, other government and railway officials, and the newspaper men.

There had never been any secret that Colonel Roosevelt, strongly, and I think justifiably, objected to

The Studebaker Specials dropped their engagement at Haldeman, Ky., Sunday when they were annihilated by the village performers by a score of 9 to 3.

It was a hot pitcher's battle for six rounds between Roberts and Fugitt but the former weakened in the seventh and a savage attack forced him to retire in favor of Wells who finished it out. Fugitt pitched great ball and was a puzzle throughout holding the visitors to six safe blows.

Move Steel At Night

The Chappelard-Gardner Company had a force of men at work nearly all night Saturday moving several large pieces of structural steel from an N. & W. car in the North End to the Anderson Bros. job. The steel was moved late at night so that there would be little delay to traffic. Main line street cars were held up a short time Sunday morning while the steel was unloaded in front of the store.

Major League Pennant Races Recall Tight Finish of 1908

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Two weeks away from the wire, the major league pennant races are almost as badly gummed up as they were in 1908, when the Tigers won on the last day of the season and when the Cubs had to take an extra game to beat the Giants.

In the National league the Giants are holding a one-game lead over the Brooklyn Robins with the Pittsburgh Pirates two games behind the Robins and three back of the champions.

The Washington Senators are still setting the pace in the American league with a lead of one game over the champion Yankees and with the Detroit Tigers four games behind the New Yorkers.

Pittsburgh and Detroit are far from being out of the running, but it seems more like the metropolitan teams will settle the race in the National league and that Washington and the Yankees will have to fight it out in the American league.

New York and Brooklyn may fight it out until the last day of the pennant race. They play all their remaining games on their home field against practically the same teams. The Giants have thirteen more games but the Robins have only eleven while Pittsburgh has seventeen more to finish.

The Yankees and the Senators are in practically the same position as they finish the season on the road against the same kind of opposition. They have fourteen more games to play each while the Tigers have only twelve more games.

For weak Run-down Condition!

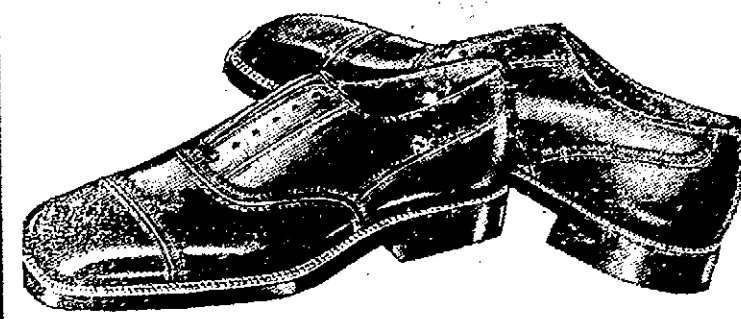

THE DOOR of opportunity flings wide its portals only to the man who is up and doing—who is filled with pep and punch—with rich, red blood tingling through his system. Mountain size obstacles divide to ant hills and ambitions become accomplishments to these sort of men.

Where is the employer who seeks the man who is physically run-down? The man without stamina to withstand the knocks and gaff of the hurrying, scurrying world of business?

S.S.S. is the long established and time honored creator of red-blood-cells. You cannot expect to get very far up the ladder unless you are equipped with a body that is strong and vigorous. S.S.S. will start you on your way. Don't allow the "Door of Opportunity" to be closed to you because you have not the stamina to withstand the gaff—because your nerve power is lacking. Build up your system! S.S.S. made of carefully selected and proportioned herbs and barks makes you fit! Get back that old time punch! When opportunity knocks be ready to answer the call!

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Beaver Defeats Lucasville

Beaver defeated Lucasville 3 to 2 in a well played game at Beaver Sunday. The contest resolved itself into a pitchers' duel between Frederick of Lucasville and Van-foesen for Beaver. The former fanned 15 and the home town twirler an even dozen. Lucasville scored in the sixth and seventh and Beaver tied it up in the seventh. With the score tied in the eighth, Beaver had three on base and no one down when Frederick fanned the next three batters. Next Sunday Harrisonville plays at Lucasville.

A night blooming cereus at the home of Dr. Joseph Gill, 721 Second street, attracted a crowd of interested observers who gathered last night at midnight to watch the great fragrant blossom unfold. The flower was perfect at about 1 o'clock but had closed and dropped by 9 o'clock this morning. Another branch of the plant has two large buds, at least one of which will probably open a beautiful night. Other smaller buds will mature in a few weeks. This is the first time the plant has bloomed in seven years.

Begin Raising Rails on Second Street Preliminary To Work of Resurfacing

Work was started this morning on Second street by the Portsmouth Public Service Company, between Chillicothe and Washington streets. The street car tracks on the south side of the street will be torn up between those two streets first and then new track laid before any more is torn up.

While the street is under construction, Second street will be made a one-way street, between Washington and Chillicothe, cars being allowed to drive west. Chief of Police Arthur stated today: "The work which will consist of raising the track three inches, will progress one square at a time and then as soon as it is completed on the south side of the street the north side will be raised. Bids have been advertised for the resurfacing of the street from Chillicothe to the Scioto bridge and the contract will probably be let within the next two weeks. The work of resurfacing will not commence, however, until the Portsmouth Street Railway Company has finished.

UNVACCINATED CHILDREN BARRED FROM LAKEWOOD, OHIO, SCHOOLS

CLEVELAND, O., September 15.—(By The Associated Press)—Approximately 175 unvaccinated children were sent home today after reporting in Lakewood public schools. Most of the ejected children asked for lessons to study as they said they planned to keep up with their work at home. The compulsory vaccination order became effective last Monday, but was held in abeyance for a week to permit parents of unvaccinated children to take them to doctors for administration of the serum.

Meanwhile, O. J. Cross, secretary of the Lakewood Anti-Vaccination League, declared a mandamus injunction suit to halt the ejecting of children from schools would be filed late today or Tuesday in county courts. COLUMBUS, O., September 15.—(By The Associated Press)—James Knib, aged nine, died in a local hospital here today from tetanus, resulting from infection in a vaccination wound. The child was vaccinated 21 days ago. Tetanus developed only twenty-four hours before his death. Parents believe the boy scratched the wound in his sleep, causing the infection.

will shortly again be made upon the veterans' bureau, that propaganda of a certain sort is in preparation for use in aid of purposes not at all connected with the interests of the ex-service men and that publicity campaigns are projected in which it is intended to drag out the mistakes and errors of the past, before you and I put our shoulders to the wheel, and so to visit, as it were, the sins of those upon the children of the third and fourth generation."

Local Motorcycle Rider Wins Contest

Seven local motorcycle riders participated in a hill-climbing contest held at Huntington Sunday, one of the local number, Howard Crosby, on a Henderson, winning out over a large field of entrants, including some of the best in the Huntington region. Other riders were entered from Ironton and Ashland. Bert Scott, W. Smith, Russell Egbert, Elwood Rose, Edward Crayton and William Craigmiles were other local riders. The contest was held on Cemetery hill, over a route covered with grass and weeds, rocks and brush. It is with considerable difficulty that a rider can remain on his machine. Sprouse Brothers, motorcycle dealers in Huntington, conducted the contest. No prizes were awarded this year. Last year Charles Cleave, present traffic officer, won the contest for motorcycles with a side car.

Legion Opens Sixth Annual Convention in St. Paul, Minn.

ST. PAUL, MINN., September 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Proclaimed by its commander "a proved quantity," the American Legion opened its sixth annual convention here today with proposed changes in policy, the most important matter likely to come before it. National Commander John R. Quinn's address, in which he said the Legion's prestige had been doubled by accomplishments in the last year, and an address by General Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, were among the first session's activities. A few hours after the opening of the Legion convention, the 40 and 8 society, the fun organization of the Legion, and the auxiliary composed of women related closely to Legionnaires, were scheduled to start their convention in nearby halls.

Helicopter Weight Lifting a Success

MONT BELIARD, FRANCE, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The success achieved by Etienne Oehmichen, the French engineer in winning the 40,000 franc prize yesterday for weight lifting with his Helicopter, is but a phase in the experiments he has been making with this type of machine. The Helicopter used in the official test lifted 220 pounds to a height of one meter in one minute and remained in that position for another minute. Later it exceeded this height with a still greater weight.

M. Oehmichen had already made vertical and circular flights, and it remained to show that the machine was capable of carrying a cargo. During the three flights made in the official test the stability of the machine was found to be perfect and the opinion was expressed that what was shown to be possible at a height of three feet was equally so at thirty feet or more.

The flights were checked by a specialist from the air department who had no hesitation in awarding the prize offered by the department.

stomach of applause from the crowd and rebel yells from the bent, be-whiskered men who smoked corn cob pipes and nodded approval at every word the candidate spoke.

In glowing tribute to Champ Clark, Davis threw in a personal touch by referring to the kindness of the late speaker to him when a young member of the house.

"The Democracy of the nation is poorer for the passing but richer for the life of Champ Clark," he said.

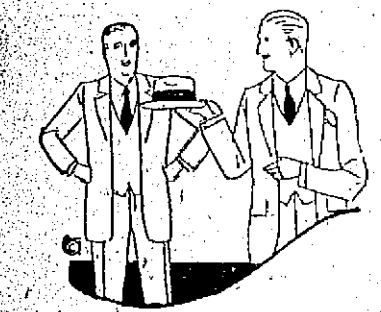

Then, taking his inspiration from the crowd, Davis raised the Republican party, calling it the party of "Special Privilege," reviewed the scandals in the administration and pledged himself to give the people an honest government if elected.

"Davis made an appeal to the women of the country by declaring that the party's ideal 'is an exact and equal partnership, with all men and women of the nation working side by side for the common welfare of themselves and their posterity.'"

"There is, there can be, neither diversity nor conflict in their interest," he said, "and the nation needs now and always the strength of their joint endeavor."

For that reason Davis expressed the hope that Missouri would elect Mrs. Kate Morrow, the Democratic nominee secretary of state. He also referred to the fact that a woman is running for the same office in West Virginia, this time.

Court House

Wife Seeks Divorce
Myrtle Duff charges cruelty and neglect in her suit for divorce and alimony with custody of their minor child, 3 years old, instituted Monday in Common Pleas court, against Daniel Duff, 841 Front street, whom she married in May 1915.

Plaintiff in her petition filed through Attorney A. R. Campbell, Jr., avers that Duff has failed and refused to support her and their child, declaring that he neglects them for the association of other women, besides, she complains, he beat and abused her so frequently during the time that she lived with him and made life so miserable that she says she was compelled to leave him on August 5.

Case Dismissed; Relief Denied
After hearing additional evidence in Common Pleas court Monday, Judge Thomas dismissed the petition and cross-petition in the divorce suit of Sallie Brelove, 1610 Waller street, against James Brelove, both colored, denying the relief sought by both parties.

They were married in 1915, and in dismissing the action the court urged both parties to live up to their marriage contract. She charged Brelove with cruelty and he accused her of being too clammy with another man.

Sale Is Short
A total of 970 motorist's licenses had been issued at the office of the clerk of courts up until noon Monday. This is about 600 short of the number of permits issued up until this date last year, according to Clerk Hall.

Made Ward of Court
Foster Coleman, 15, Union township boy, living near Kentley, taken into custody by Probation Officer Fernald Gilliland for playing hooky from school and misconduct, was made a ward of the court and then sent home by Judge Gilliland on his promise to do better in the future.

Naturalization Hearing
Notices were sent out Monday by Clerk of Courts John W. Hull applicants that their positions for naturalization will be for hearing before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court at 10 o'clock on Friday, September 26, instead of September 24, as previously announced.

The change in date was made by the U. S. examiner in charge of the Cincinnati office.

McCoy Fined; Companion Dismissed
Clarence "Stub" McCoy, 21, arrested last week by county officers at Worley's Run, West Side, for having property designed for the manufacture of illicit liquor in his possession, pleaded guilty when brought before Judge George S. Morgan, Monday and was fined $100 and costs.

When McCoy assumed ownership of the property in question, the court dismissed his companion, Elbert Phillips, 33, who denied guilt.

Suits In Foreclosure
Two suits seeking money claimed to be due on promissory notes and foreclosure of mortgages on real estate were brought by Marvin C. Clark, suing through Attorney Will J. Meyer in Common Pleas court, Monday, against William E. Tripp and others.

The premises involved consists of 10 lots situated in Porter and Green townships.

Hunting Squirrel
Squire James Platt, clerk in the Probate office, took the day off Monday to take a fling at the festive squirrel down in the Twin Creek district.

Auditor Roy Colburn shouldered his treaty shooting iron and made for the woods in Harrison township to pursue the bushy tail while Deputy Sheriff Bob Reno left yesterday for his home in Highland county to spend a few days hunting.

Wife Must Testify
Pearl Gal, of New Boston, must appear in Common Pleas court Saturday to testify in her own behalf in the divorce suit of her husband, Martin Gal, a clerk, who is seeking a legal separation on the grounds of neglect and cruelty.

Gal told the court they were married in New York City in 1922, and declared that about two months ago when she ordered him to leave their home and he refused to go, she took her departure, he stated, and had since failed to return. Gal further accused the defendant of associating with one Newton McGraw, a clerk, who was partially blind, and that McGraw had come to her home recently when he caught the pair in an automobile on the Turkey Creek road and followed them.

The divorce suit of Arlie Rose, Pond Creek, against Henry Rose was partially heard by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court, Monday, and then continued until the defendant can be brought into court to testify in his own behalf.

Plaintiff said she married Rose in May, 1921, and that he abandoned her more than two years ago for the association of another woman. She further stated that during the time she lived with the defendant he neglected to support her and beat and abused her. Attorneys Miller and Seel appeared for plaintiff.

Marrings Licenses
Irving S. Hudson, salesman, Rossmore, Va., and Mildred G. White, 23, Ironton, Ky., S. Hudsonmeyer.

John Robinson, 24, laborer, city, and Margaret Solomon, 16, city. Both colored. Rev. J. W. Smith.

Dewitt C. Hartle, 27, builder, Columbus, and Merle Horne, 23, city. Rev. Wm. H. Gleason.

Says Wu's Ambition Driving Him Mad
LONDON, September 15.—(By the United Press)—The Daily Mail's Mukden correspondent enables an interview with Chung Tso Lin, in which the Manchurian leader says: "I am moving troops to certain strategic places to meet a threatening attack from Wu Pei Fu, but I will not fire the first shot and I guarantee full protection to foreign life and property."

"I consider Wu Pei Fu a man whose ambition is driving him mad. He wants to be dictator of China, but his claims to be another Napoleon are signs of insanity."

Chang Tso Lin, the correspondent says, he massed 300,000 troops at Jehol, 115 miles northeast of Peking.

Big Guns Of Progressives To Boom In Ohio This Week

(By PAUL R. MALLON)

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, September 15.—(By the United Press)—The big guns of the Independents—restrained—since the start of the campaign—will be unleashed full force this week. Robert M. La Follette will come out of retirement for his first public appearance in the campaign here Thursday; Burton K. Wheeler starts tonight on a stump to the home state of former Attorney General Daugherty, whom he ousted from office; a new drive for money has been ordered and half a dozen speakers are to begin campaigning for the ticket.

For weeks Senator La Follette has purposely held back. He remained in Washington while Wheeler was making his "trial tour" through the East to prepare for his big fight against Daugherty in Ohio and Duquesne in Illinois.

Thousands of words of speeches are written and word has gone out that all is in readiness for the final test. Wheeler starts the ball rolling tonight at a dinner here to La Follette leaders at which money for financing the campaign is to be raised. He will leave later tonight for Pittsburgh and on start through Ohio on Tuesday.

The progressives expect great things of the Ohio drive because of the prominence given to the crusade which resulted in President Coolidge requesting Daugherty's resignation as head of the Department of Justice.

The Wheeler tour schedules speeches in Cleveland Tuesday, Toledo and Columbus, Thursday and Dayton and Cincinnati Friday.

From Cincinnati he will go to Chicago where elaborate preparations have been made for a personal campaign against Charles G. Dawes, the Republican vice presidential candidate.

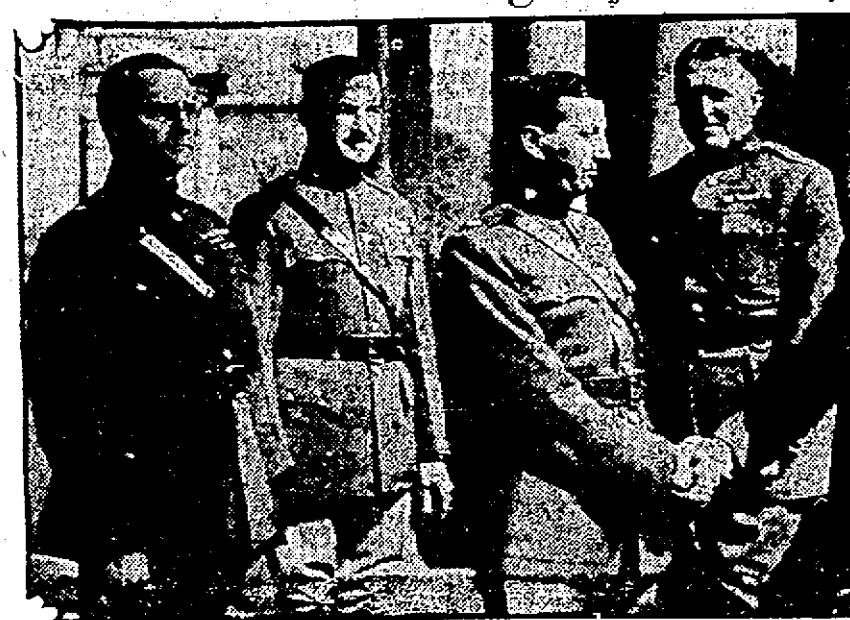

"Developments every day are bringing us more and more strength and we are in better position today with our big guns still in reserve, than we have been at any time," Wheeler told conferees here this morning.

Edward C. Platt Dies Suddenly
NEW YORK, September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Edward C. Platt, vice president and treasurer of the Mackay Companies and the Postal Telegraph Cable Company, died suddenly today of angina pectoris, in the Hotel St. George, in Brooklyn. Mr. Platt, who was 73 years old, was a director of the American Exchange National Bank of New York.

WAS DEFENSE ATTORNEY
CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 15.—Judge J. M. Vaughn, has returned from Greenup where he defeated Warren Green, charged with the murder of Cottle Manlin, on June 26, last. Green was sentenced to 8 years in the penitentiary.

Will Enter Medical School
Clyde Berry, son of Ernest Berry, 3185 Walnut street, East Portsmouth, leaves Tuesday for Cincinnati, where he will enter the Cincinnati Medical School. He graduated from P. H. S. two years ago and has been working at the steel plant.

Eggs to Be Higher; Poultry to Be About Same, Butter Cheaper

COLUMBUS, O., September 15.—(By the United Press)—C. J. West, of the state federal crop reporting service, today said and interpreted the winter dairy products price barometer for Ohio. According to West's predictions, eggs are going to be a little higher priced this winter. He bases this prediction on cold storage figures for the country which show that there are 1,000,000 less cases of eggs in storage this year than there were last.

Poultry, he said will remain about the same price. Butter is expected to be cheaper. There are 156,232,000 pounds of it in storage in the United States this year compared with 103,000,000 pounds last year.

Tendency To Propose Amendments To Constitution Deplored By Judge Thomas

Members of the Civitan Club meeting at the Mary Louise this noon were addressed by Judge James S. Thomas, who talked on the subject of the Constitution of the United States. Judge Thomas deplored the present tendency to propose amendments to the constitution to satisfy the desires of small groups and blocs organized for selfish interests. "Our constitution, ratified September 17, 1787, stood the test of 137 years. It is manifestly absurd for little groups to strive to change this document according to their own whims and fancies," Judge Thomas spoke particularly against the proposal to amend the constitution so as to rest the power of judicial decisions of the constitutionality of laws with Congress instead of the Supreme Court of the United States. "To rest the ultimate power of judging with congress instead of with the courts is contrary to all the laws of experience," said Judge Thomas. No business was transacted; the program hour being given over to Judge Thomas, whose address was in recognition of Constitution Day, which will be observed throughout the United States Wednesday, September 17.

Chicken Raid Victim Taken To Jail

Harrison "Nip" Clifford, who suffered the amputation of his left leg at Hempstead hospital September 2 as the result of gunshot wounds received the night before when he was one of a party to raid the Earl Garvey henhouse on Turkey Creek, was removed from the hospital to the county jail Monday afternoon by county officers. Clifford was the victim of a trap set by Garvey, who placed a loaded shot gun in the house so that it would fire when the door was opened. Clifford received the full charge in his leg and it had to be amputated the next day.

Charles Shaw, William Haman and Carl Bates, companions of Clifford, were arrested that night. Clifford is charged with breaking and entering the chicken coop. Several days ago Clifford, realizing that he would be taken to the county jail planned to escape. His wife was caught in the act of bringing him a supply of clothing and other patients near Clifford (old of the young man making plans for several friends to call for him in a machine during the night. The supply of clothes was taken in charge by nurses and a close watch was then kept on the young man until the attending physician dismissed him today.

Huntington and Portsmouth would have teams that would battle with the "Big Red" team. Portsmouth, they say, will go into the highways and byways to rake up enough material to make a good team, while Huntington has some fairly good material if they can get the together. There has been some talk of forming another Portsmouth team, but as yet nothing definite has been done. A great many former local football players have expressed their desire to form a team if they could get the backing for the first game. If such a team is formed, it is almost certain that they will go against the Tanks, but nothing definite has been done so far.

Tanks Will Open Season September 28

The famous Ironton Tanks will open their football season Sunday, September 28, with the Murray City Tigers, at Ironton. According to the Ironton Register, the Tanks will be stronger this year than ever before and Coach Davies is working up a line and backfield that will be invulnerable.

The Register also said that Huntington and Portsmouth would have teams that would battle with the "Big Red" team. Portsmouth, they say, will go into the highways and byways to rake up enough material to make a good team, while Huntington has some fairly good material if they can get the together. If such a team is formed, it is almost certain that they will go against the Tanks, but nothing definite has been done so far.

VANCE TURNS IN FOURTEENTH STRAIGHT VICTORY FOR ROBINS OVER CINCINNATI REDLEGS

Sunday Victory Gave Dazzy 26th of Season

BROOKLYN, September 15.—Dazzy Vance made his fourteenth victory in the fourth round Sunday when he blanked Cincinnati, 2 to 0, in a pitcher's battle with Rube Bressler. It was Vance's twenty-sixth win of the season. He also added nine strikeouts to his record. He struck out the side in both the third and sixth innings, pitching only nine balls in the third.

The Dodgers scored one run off Rixer in the fourth on hits by Mitchell and Fournier and Brown's sacrifice fly. They got their other tally off Benton on successive singles by Griffith, Deberry and Vance. The score:

GIANTS BEAT CARDS

NEW YORK, September 15.—The Giants defeated St. Louis here Sunday 3 to 2, holding their lead of a little more than a game over Brooklyn, which defeated the Cincinnati club.

Arthur Nehf made his fourth home run of the year with Gowdy on base in the third. All four of Nehf's homers have been made off Starni, three at the Polo Grounds and one in St. Louis.

Hornaby singled in the sixth, scoring Blakes and in the ninth he singled scores from third after he had singled again. Blakes followed suit.

Gowdy hit a home run in the eighth inning with two on. Douthit, of the Cardinals, featured with several good running catches. Score:

U. S. Team Makes Clean Sweep Of Series

GERMANTOWN CRICKET CLUB. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., September 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Supremacy in the lawn tennis world was clearly demonstrated Sunday at the Germantown Cricket Club grounds when the United States team made a clean sweep of the five game series for the Davis against the Australians.

Tilden defeated Pat O'Hara Wood, in the first match by scores of 6-2, 6-1.

day, William T. Tilden, 11, and Vincent Richards today swept their Australian rivals off the court in the closing singles matches in straight sets. It was the fifth successive triumph for the United States since 1920, when the American team went to Australia and brought back the International trophy.

Tilden defeated Pat O'Hara Wood, in the first match by scores of 6-2, 6-1.

Tigers And Mound Park Elevens Win First Games In Y. M. C. A. League

The Y. M. C. A. Boys' Football league opened Saturday at Mound park. The New Boston Tigers and Junior Ramblers had the honor of playing the initial contest, and when New Boston kicked off at 10 o'clock sharp the Y. M. C. A. grid season was on. New Boston won the first battle, 18 to 0, Captain Armstrong scoring three touchdowns for the victors in the second, third and fourth periods, respectively. When the whistle blew at the end of the first quarter the score stood 0 to 0. Captain Junior Moore played a fine leading game for the Ramblers and was full of grit and pep throughout the contest. John Fugitt made a desperate attempt to score a touchdown by a good run, but was downed on the three-yard line. Score of the game:

Next Junior Division game Thursday, September 18, 4:30 p. m. at Mound park. Micklethwait Midgits vs. Barney Google, Jr.

In the Intermediate Division of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Grid League, Howard C. Braham's Mound Park defeated the Pioneers 34 to 6. Cyg started with three touchdowns, and Stevens and O'Connor each crossed the goal line once. The clever plays in try-for-point after touchdowns by the victors were features. The Pioneers put up a very good defensive line considering the fact they didn't have any team training prior to the game, but will get in shape by next contest. Pioneers scored the lone touchdown for the losers after a 50-yard run.

HUGE BUYING ORDERS GIVE STOCK PRICES STRENGTH

Buying of Specialties Varied; Columbia Gas Touches New High

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Stocks moved within a narrow trading area in today's market, the duller of the week's session. Strength of the diversified buying orders, especially the Rock Island issue, was one of the few features. The closing was irregular. Sale approximated 500,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Appearance of large buying orders in a number of today's stock market brought about short covering and a recovery.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.
To The Associated Press

In prices, Stewart Warner advanced two points, Union Tank Car 1½ and Republic Steel at one. Glimb Brothers advanced ½ to a new 1924 high price.

Buying of specialties became more varied in the subsequent dealings, with General Baking, International Business Machine, Central Leather Pfd., U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Columbia Gas rising 1 to 1½ points. The latter reached a new top price at 44 in response to an offering of $10,000,000 preferred stock to present shareholders. These exhibitions of strength contrasted with selling of American Can, Baldwin and General Electric. United Railways Investment Pfd., fell back ¼ points on profit taking inspired by last Saturday's brisk advance. Foreign exchanges were easier at the opening.

Steady accumulation of Rock Island common which moved up two points was based on reports that the Southern Pacific was acquiring large blocks of the stock in connection with merger plans. Other low priced rails with merger possibilities advanced in sympathy. St. Louis Southwestern, common and preferred, Seaboard Air Line common and preferred, Frisco, Great Northern and Chicago Great Western preferred being among the many issues to advance a point or more. Attempts of bear traders to unsettle the general list by offering down some of the standard industrials met with little success and were soon abandoned.

Good buying was noted in the food, rubber, leather, tobacco, chemical, independent steel and public utility issues, although trading was on a restricted scale. Standard Milling was pushed up four points to a new 1924 high. Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

Wheat Takes an Upward Swing; Corn Market Weak

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK MARKETS

Stock markets irregular; non-dividend paying railroads strong. Bonds firm; low priced rail bonds active. Foreign exchange steady; sterling slightly lower. Cotton weak; heavy hedging. Sugar lower; easier spot market. Coffee easy; favorable Brazilian crop news.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Wheat higher; expected bullish Canadian estimate. Corn easy; favorable weather. Cattle slow and lower. Hogs higher; better shipping demand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Wheat took an upward swing in price early today as a result of active buying based more or less on Liverpool quotations. The market was also strengthened by the fact that latest estimates of yield in Saskatchewan were much below any heretofore current. Indications of new export business tended further to lift values. The opening, which ranged from 1½ to 1½½ higher, with December 1.32½ to 1.33½ and May 1.31½ to 1.32½, were followed by slight additional gains and then something of a reaction.

The close was strong, 1½ to 2½ cent higher, December 1.34½ to 1.35½ and May 1.40½ to 1.41½. Increased selling pressure from large commission houses weakened the corn market, despite pessimistic crop reports and notwithstanding rallies due to wheat strength. After opening at ½ cent lower to ½ cent higher, December 1.13 to 1.13½, corn underwent a decided setback all around.

The close was unsettled, 1½ to ½ cent lower, December 1.13 to 1.13½, and May 1.18 to 1.18½.

Ons held steady within narrow limits. Starting unchanged to ½ cent higher, December 52½ to 53½, prices showed but little change.

Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

THE REDEEMING POINT

There continues to be discussion about the decision of Judge Caverly in fixing the sentences of Loeb and Leopold, young Chicago murderers, at life imprisonment, instead of hanging—they still hold on to the good old method of hanging in Illinois, sometimes.

Almost unanimous opinion is that the death penalty should have been adjudged. Judge Caverly saw otherwise, and it seems there can be no appeal from his judgment.

It will therefore have to be accepted, with this much standing in its favor. The judge did not allow any of the defendants sought to be fogged with the learned counsel of the defense, but determined it upon the sole ground that no mere youth had ever been given the death penalty, and he could not find it in his heart or judgment to set a new precedent.

No doubt, he reached the same conclusion, under all the circumstances, as any other jurists would, and would have experienced little criticism therefor had the foul murderers not had millions of wealth back of them.

A BLESSING IN DISGUISE

If you were a scientist you would not complain of the capricious and cantankerous weather that September has furnished this clime in half her sojourn.

March's roaring lion is a lullaby zephyr compared to the icy blast with which she afflicted us on her advent. Between times she has made days as hot as if one were gasping under equatorial sun and nights where in freezing restless an uneasy sleeper dreamed he was being tossed about among icebergs—and all the time too lazy to get up and put on more cover.

But it's all right at that, in September, the ordinarily gentle month, the one when a strange sort of lassitude settles over and a vague melancholy permeates us, is a blessing in disguise, always according to the scientists. Her varied and extreme changes have shocked our physical system into activity, sort of tuned it up, as it were, and put it in better condition to resist the rigors of winter.

A FITTING DATE

GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING went on to the army retired list on September 12th, last.

That was a fitting date for him to bring his long and useful military career to an end. It was the anniversary of the battle of St. Mihiel, the first major engagement conducted by American officers and men in the world's war.

From a military standpoint, St. Mihiel was no great battle, but it was important in two respects, yes, it might be said three. It gave visible demonstration that the Americans had arrived in more ways than one, thereby renewing the spirit of Germany's foes, it showed that our boys not only could fight, but they knew how and in a tactical way it was of great advantage, relieving France from a threat in one sector that was one of her great dangers.

Perhaps, General Pershing has not yet received full credit for the superb strategy with which he designed and executed the engagement, but when the history of the great war comes to be written in calmness and detail he will be hailed as one of its most brilliant commanders.

Republican papers are not making much fuss about how Maine went, though she did play a bit of hell as usual. In the days when she was foolishly regarded as a political "pinter" anything over 20,000 was a happy harbinger to Republicans. The majority, Monday, was 35,000, but it must be taken into consideration that women vote now, so the indicator isn't indicating to the G. O. P. as jocosely as it might.

The election draws near day by day, but Cautious Cal hasn't yet, so far as utterance from him indicates, decided whether or not the good housewives are to get cheaper sugar.

At least the league and the world's base ball championship will be decided in time for the nation to give a bit of attention to politics.

THE FAULT LIES ELSEWHERE

THE Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has been investigating the cases wherein it paid indemnity on the policies of its patrons who met death through homicide. It found 446 cases of this sort. Definite information, however, could be found as to only 146. Of the 146, 32 were "justifiable homicide," and only 69 indictments were found. It would appear, therefore, that in 35 instances there was no action at all. Convictions were returned on 41 indictments.

On this data the company concludes that the country's criminal laws are very feeble.

We can not agree with it. The law is strong enough. It makes ample provision for the punishment of murderers. The fault is with enforcement.

That fault does not lie solely with officials either. Unfortunately there are incompetent, lax and corrupt officials, many incompetents especially, but responsibility for seeming feebleness of the law, is shared in a major degree by the public.

Men stand on the street corners, denounce public officials, decry the law, but put anyone on the jury and nine times out of ten, he will ignore the law as it is and join in a verdict that is totally against the spirit of the law.

Things are not quite so lovely in Kansas as they might be. William Allen White, a writer of renown and Kansas' most popular citizen, has filed as an independent candidate for governor to test, as he says, whether or not the Republican party is really an adjunct of the Ku Klux Klan.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTIRE

Paris, Sept. 15.—The wickedest and most vicious spot in Paris they tell you is the Paris Markets—the famous Les Halles—shortly before dawn. This is the roost for the foul night birds of the city. Here one sees the Apache—hoodlums in corduroy trousers, red snash and peaked cloth caps.

Les Halles is a magnet for underworld dress and the stinking of summer. It was once a humble eating and drinking establishment for the market folk, but fell into disrepute. It boasts the foulest cabaret in the world, the Chien Qui Fume—The Smoking Dog.

It was 4 o'clock when I arrived by taxi. The ancient cavalcade of slow moving vegetable, carts—piled high and neatly with carrots, cabbages and other vegetables—lined the street. Downstairs in the small bars market porters were consuming hot coffee and tiny glasses of alcohol.

Upstairs was the most gathering I ever beheld. Painted women talking drunken gibberish. Polished crooks, slick Sling Americans, Apachees, foreigners of every clime. The eternal war of the sexes. Women whose false smiles hid their cunning and guttery language.

French women do not scratch or pull hair when they fight. They use bottles and glasses. There were three fights in fifteen minutes. At a table I saw two half stupefied cocottes sharing a phial of cocaine. At another table woman's evening gown was half torn off.

Paris police are passive toward Les Halles. No one seems to understand why. A group of American collegiates and co-eds came in unchaperoned. All were bleary from a night of dissipation. From table to table went the cocaine with her illicit query: "Can love me? Yes? Outside again the fresh morning air was a welcome relief. Dawn was stealing over Paris roof tops and inconspicuously it seemed a city of innocence. On my way home a group of women were kneeling in prayer beside a pillar in Saint Sulpice church.

Plattsburg, Mo., met Plattsburg, Mo. today on the Rue de la Paix. While waiting in front of a hotel for my wife I was greeted by Seth and Cora Herndon, two young men from my home town.

Tonight we dined at Restaurant Marguery—whose "sole Marguery" is featured on every American menu. Our table was on the porch overlooking Boulevard Bonaparte. Afterward I went through the wine cellar, considered one of the most famous in Paris. It was a labyrinth of tunnels and catacombs with rare vintages. The wine superintendent is paid $80 a month—the highest salary for restaurant attaches. "Many Americans see our cellars and weep," he told me.

The army of Paris rag pickers live in a section beyond the fortifications called "The Zone." They emerge at night from filthy little hovels to scavenge the paves and gutters. You see them—men, women and children—hauling over garbage bins and sorting out the scraps of refuse—food, cracked dishes, paper and cloth. A few of the more affluent own their donkey drawn carts. They are human pigs rooting for truffles and how they carry such enormous bags on their backs is one of the Paris mysteries.

The air of Paris is like a loving caress. The sun descends in a coloring of pink and soft gray. At such an hour the Seine turns to a river of gold. All breath-taking in its beauty.

The concierge is a Parisian institution. He lives in a little room near the main barn like door of apartment houses. He is the gossip of the place and knows all the goings, comings and doings of the tenants. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A prophet's not without honor, Save in his own country. There where the handman's greatest, Is the place where I'll abide. There where my failings and virtues, Are known to my fellow man, There where the battle's unequal, I'll do the best that I can. There day by day I will struggle, Struggle with ardor and zeal, Striving for those who oppress me, Thinking alone of their weal. Then when the shadows o'ertake me, I will contented lie down, If I'm assured I have made good, With folks of my old home town.

You Never Can Tell
A strapping woman boarded a trolley car in Rye, New York, settled into a seat and paid her fare. The car had not traveled more than five blocks when she rose and rang up a cash fare. Whereupon the conductor strode up to her.

"Madame," he demanded, "do you know that I must turn in every fare rung up on that register?"

"Certainly," the woman replied, throwing open her coat and showing a badge. "Meet the new inspector."

All Serene
The Florida beach and blue sea looked inviting to the tourist from the North, but before venturing out to swim he thought to make sure.

"You're quite certain there are no alligators here?" he inquired of the guide.

"Nossuh," replied that functionary, grinning broadly. "Ain' no 'gators lynh."

Reassured, the tourist started out. As the water lapped about his chest he called back:

"What makes you so sure there aren't any alligators?"

"Dey's got too much sense," beelowed the guide. "De sharks done skeered dem all away." — American Legion Weekly.

The Editor
An editor's a gloomy man. Who fusses, fumes and frets; He puts in all his cheerless life Expressing his regrets.

The Logical Moment

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Doc Koko's KOLUM

"I WANT TO MAKE GOOD WITH MY HOME TOWN FOLKS"
(By Wm. Farmer, Platteau, Ohio.)
Some folks strive to bear their fortune, In a distant foreign land. Some like to climb to heights of fame, Far beyond their native strand. There where the conflict is equal, Midst the struggle and the din, They fight life's battle unhampered, With an even chance to win. Far from the poison of bias, Engendered by jealous hate, They rise to places of power, And by the world are called great.

Save a prophet's not without honor, There where the handman's greatest, Is the place where I'll abide. There where my failings and virtues, Are known to my fellow man, There where the battle's unequal, I'll do the best that I can. There day by day I will struggle, Struggle with ardor and zeal, Striving for those who oppress me, Thinking alone of their weal. Then when the shadows o'ertake me, I will contented lie down, If I'm assured I have made good, With folks of my old home town.

True—"People are talking about her."
Sue—"What has she done?"
"Nothing"—but it's her turn to be talked about.
